Stella Jesselle Garciano is the Props Master on our production of Hir! Here are a few words from her about her career working in props:

*I just recently graduated from Capilano University's Technical Theatre program. During my last summer, I worked on a Christmas feature and a few short films with my friends. This is my first time managing the props department on my own and I'm excited to help put together the world that is in Hir.*

*The reason why I work in props and set dec is because I love the physical components that put the audience into the world of the story. It's always the small little details that make it that much more convincing. In Hir's case, it's full of chaos fighting with order and it'll be a fun challenge getting everything together.*

Stay tuned for upcoming blogs about the rest of the Hir company!
